One Day Workshop on “Sustainable Farming and Environmental Conservation”

The Environmental Committee of the college through IQAC Cell organized One Day Workshop on “Sustainable Farming and Environmental Conservation” as a part of the Environmental studies for VI Semester LL.B. and X Semester B.A. LL.B., students on May 30, 2026 at Rippanpete, Hosanagara. The resource person of the programme was Sri. Manjunath Bhat, Agricultural Scientist, Rippanpete, Hosanagara. The workshop was conducted at the farm of Sri Manjunath Bhatt, a progressive farmer known for adopting sustainable agricultural practices.

The visit aimed to provide students with practical exposure to environmentally friendly farming methods and to create awareness about the importance of conserving natural resources. During the workshop, Sri Manjunath Bhatt explained various sustainable farming techniques, including organic cultivation, water conservation, soil management, crop diversification, and the use of natural fertilizers.

Students were given an opportunity to observe different farming practices directly in the field. The resource person highlighted the significance of maintaining ecological balance while ensuring agricultural productivity. The participants also learned about the challenges faced by farmers and the measures adopted to protect the environment.

The workshop was highly informative and interactive. It helped students understand the practical aspects of environmental conservation and sustainable agriculture. The visit enhanced their knowledge and encouraged them to adopt environmentally responsible practices in their daily lives.

The programme concluded with a vote of thanks to Sri Manjunath Bhatt for sharing his valuable knowledge and experience. The students expressed their appreciation for the opportunity to learn from a successful and environmentally conscious farmer. Dr. M. Somshekarappa, Director, R.L. Law College, presided over the program. Dr. Pankaja T.C. Assistant Professor and Environmental Committee coordinator coordinated the programme. Smt. Trupthi G.H., Assistant Professor and Sri. R.B. Lingaraj Office Superintendent were also present in the programme.
